

Application engineer

Description

We are looking for a Bachelor in engineering with a background in electronics and programming to support the R+D+i activities of the gas sensors group at IMB-CNM.

Requirements/Background and skills

- Applicants must hold a bachelor's degree or equivalent education in electronics or telecommunications engineering or a similarly relevant discipline.
- Previous experience in instrumentation, electronic design, LabVIEW and/or Python is considered an advantage.
- Ability to work in a structured and independent manner and to collaborate with others.
- Oral and written proficiency in Spanish and English will be valued

Summary of conditions

We offer a contract of 1 year. possible extension will depend on the quality of the work performed and the availability of funding from new projects. Full time and salary in accordance with qualifications, experience and CSIC regulations.

Research Group

The selected candidate will join the gas sensors group, which focuses its research on new gas sensor microsystems that are more performant, affordable and miniaturized than existing ones for applications in air-quality and agriculture.

How to apply

Applications must be sent by email to stella.vallejos@imb-cnm.csic.es with the subject "Job offer application engineer"

Applications must include a CV of the candidate.

Deadline for applications: 6th of October 2024

Expected start date: As soon as possible